BRIGHT BEGINNINGS.
A LITTLE MORE WONDER.

KEEP THE LIVE HERO EXACTLY AS IT IS.

A more expressive continuation of concept 01. One dramatic property reveal earns attention. Calmer, visitor-controlled sections make room for real questions.

Property reveal	Two pink panels open onto the supplied exterior. This is the only pinned scene. The caption and identical-build disclosure stay readable.
Specialist guidance	Pre-foreclosure / delinquency, probate, divorce and short sales become clear, selectable situations. Use a gentle 160ms content transition.
Development explorer	Use three stage tabs to organize the eight real flyer projects. Show the relevant group without a long inventory dump.
Mobile and reduced motion	Remove pinning and parallax. Show complete photography immediately. Stack galleries and retain usable disclosure controls.
Design boundaries	The hero shown below is an unchanged screenshot for context. Everything below it is editable. The live site and its source files remain untouched.
Companion prototype	A separate HTML motion study demonstrates the proposed transition and controls. Its hero is a clearly identified reference image.

THE PINK WELCOME OPENS INTO A HOME.

One memorable scroll moment after the unchanged live hero. Frames captured from the working motion study.

Panels move apart in opposite directions as the visitor scrolls. The exterior settles gently from 1.06x scale.

03 ARRIVE HOME

The photo fills the aperture. A short resolved hold lets the visitor see the home before continuing.

Desktop choreography

One pinned encounter, 2.1 viewport heights. Panels finish opening before the final hold. Scrolling backward reverses the reveal.

Phone + reduced motion

Show the finished photograph immediately. Remove pinning, doors and parallax. Keep every caption, control and contact option available.

After the peak

Interior images move by only a few pixels. Specialist choices change gently; development tabs reveal a selected stage. The contact close stays still.
